

FULL SPECTRUM DECISION-MAKING

HANDOUT 3A

Instructions: Individually, review the diagram below and answer the questions. Please write your answers down and/or share them verbally with another training participant.

6 GOALS FOR RISK & DANGER ASSESSMENT: Most effective as a team-based practice

REACTIVE PROCESS
centers on incident management alone, with inconsistent contextual inquiry

What you do

- Incident Management
- Contextual Inquiry
- Impact Assessment

How you get there

- Sincere Engagement
- Relationship Building
- Create Transformative Experiences

transformative experiences repair traumatic experiences & avoid re-creating or re-enacting them

FULL SPECTRUM DECISION-MAKING

Questions:

1. Can you think of a time when you and your team engaged in full spectrum decision-making for risk & danger assessment versus reactive decision-making? Referring to the diagram, please elaborate on what your full spectrum decision-making process involved.
2. How was engaging in the process of full spectrum decision making challenging or different from reactive decision making (when decisions are made primarily to manage the incident of DV)?
3. What kinds of outcomes came about from this type of decision-making? How did it improve your response and the family's experience, if at all?
